The Christmas Canine (Almost-) Disaster

It was a snowy Winter when my family and I decided to go to a walk with our dog Wuffi. He was very happy when we went outside with him. He dug himself into the snow and ran around all over the place.

Suddenly, when we weren't paying attention and he was off digging again somewhere, he disappeared. We looked everywhere but we could not find him. I screamed the whole time: "Wuffi where are you?!" But nothing helped. I wanted to find my dog but the snow was too deep so we could not see anything properly. We asked some people if they had seen Wuffi, but nobody had seen him.

Suddenly we heard a dog barking. I knew it was Wuffi because he had a special sounding bark. I ran towards the barking as fast as I could. When I arrived there with my family, we found Wuffi. He was sitting alone in the street. We went to Wuffi. He was extremely happy when he saw us. We were happy too. Together we went at home and gave Wuffi his favourite food.
