Christmas with the Weasleys

This year Harry Potter was very excited because he got to celebrate Christmas with his favourite family, the Weasleys. He always had to spend Christmas at Hogwarts or with the Dursleys, but this year it was different.

Harry, Ron, Ginny, Fred and George all went to the Hogwarts express and went to Kings Cross. After a long time, they arrived, Mrs and Mr Weasley were already waiting for them. Potter and the Weasleys got to the Burrow where the redhaired wizards and witches live (the Weasleys) and unpacked in their rooms.

It was finally Christmas eve, and everyone was happy and cheerful, even Hedwig and Erol, the owls of Harry and Ron. After they had eaten a great meal that was had been prepared with lots of love, they went to the living room and opened their presents. As usual everyone got a knitted jumper with the first letter of their name on it, handmade by Mrs. Weasley. Mr. Weasley opened the present Harry had brought for him, and it was a ... duck. He was very happy about this gift, because his fascination with Muggles grew every day. Ron got a set of wizarding chess, the twins Fred and George got a pranking idea set, Ginny got her first own broom stick and was extremely happy about it, and last, but not least, Harry got an invisibility cloak that had once belonged to his father James Potter.

They then all played games like wizarding chess or spoke till they fell asleep.
