

December 4th, 2020 - Athena and Bibi's story

Sometimes, two people pair up as authors. This seems to be the case with Bibi & Athena. Here's one of their magic stories.

The invisibility cape

Once there was a girl named Rose. She had always dreamt of being invisible. She was excited because the next day was Christmas. Rose would celebrate it with her relatives. Her parents promised her that they would buy her an invisibility cape. She could not wait so she went to bed.

The next day the little girl woke up. Rose went she could to the bathroom as fast as she could and brushed her teeth. Then she walked down the stairs to eat breakfast. The girl saw her Grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins. Rose's mother made pancakes with chocolate syrup and whipped cream and hot chocolate with whipped cream. After the young lady had eaten up, she played with her cousins. After a while, the kids went to their presents. Rose found her present and immediately opened her gift. She was so happy and tried out her invisibility cape. It worked perfectly – no one was able to see her.

After the holidays, Rose took her invisibility cape to school. In the break her friends and her played hide and seek. She didn't need to hide because she was wearing her invisibility cape. After they had played many rounds, they asked Rose how she could hide so well because the hiders always won. She answered: "With magic."

Written by Athena Sarder and Bianca Vlasak, edited by Daphne Paul.